Q - I understand a person has 7 months to sign up for medical insurance and that if he does not apply during this period of time, he must wait for a new enrollment period. Is this correct?

A - Yes. The 7-month period includes the 3 months before a person reaches 65, the month of his 65th birthday, and the 3 months after he is 65. People who do not enroll during this period must wait until the last 3 months of the next odd-numbered year to enroll.

Q - What does a person lose if he does not enroll for medical insurance during his first enrollment period?

A - He will not have another chance to enroll until the last 3 months of the next odd-numbered year, and his coverage will not begin until July of the following year. In addition to having no coverage during this period of time, when he may need it, he may have to pay a higher premium for the same protection.

Q - My father, a social security beneficiary, has a part-time job. To keep the job, he must work a minimum number of hours which causes him to earn slightly over $1,500 a year. Will he lose all his social security benefits?

A - No, he will only lose part of his benefits. His benefits will be reduced by only $1 for each $2 he earns between $1,500 and $2,700. If he earns over $2,700 he will lose $1 in benefits for each $1 earned over $2,700. If your father earned $2,500 a year, for example, his social security benefits would be reduced by only $500.

Q - I am 67 years old, and earning about $7,000 a year. Every year, I take off in the summer and have to income in July or August. Can I get social security for these months?

A - Yes, no matter how high your yearly earnings are, you can receive checks for any months you do not earn more than $125.

Summerfield Leaving For Interlochen

The Summerfield School Marching Band leaves Tuesday, August 15, for Interlochen National Camp. According to Joseph H. Hoot III, band director, 45 members of the band will leave for the camp at 7 a.m. Tuesday. The band is made up of 300-odd students and is the largest band in the state. The camp is located in the southwest of Traverse City. Several other high school bands are also leaving for the camp. Emphasis will be on improving marching techniques and band performance. The band will be in camp for about a week and will return to school on Monday, August 22. Part of the band is supported by the local schools and the band association. The band is between $1,500 and $2,000.

GRUBER'S GRAND OPENING OF LIMBERTVILLE STORE THIS WEEK

Monroe Based Food Chain Story Of Hard Work And Faith In Local Community

Gruber, president of Gruber's Food Markets and Mrs. John Carey and children from Limbertville, the first customer to be checked out in the new store.

Gruber is well known throughout Monroe county for his participation in civic affairs. He was a member of the Monroe County Board of Directors, the Monroe Golf and Country Club and has been a member of Rotary for the last 20 years.

The Monroe county food chain is holding its grand opening of their Bedford township store starting Wednesday.

Gruber is well known throughout Monroe county for his participation in civic affairs. He was a member of the Monroe County Board of Directors, the Monroe Golf and Country Club and has been a member of Rotary for the last 20 years.

The growing chain of Gruber's Food Markets with headquarters in Monroe, is the subject of an inspiring success story for all independent retailers, because it is a success that was achieved and is maintained by united effort and hard work. There were no lucky breaks, so to speak, in the history of this firm.

It may well be said that the actual birth of Gruber's Food Markets took place in 1915, even though the late Fred J. Gruber probably never dreamed that the business would reach its present stature. From 1915 until 1947, the elder Gruber operated what was then called a general store in the community, which was then called a general store in the community, which was then called a general store in the community.

Leslie Gruber, one of four brothers, exhibited an aggressive interest in business at the early age of sixteen, when he worked a Toledo bread route for a few months before his youthfulness was discovered. Two years later, in 1935, he concluded a unique pact with his father whereby he acquired the Sand Pit store with its three hundred dollar inventory, for which he would pay over a period of time. The agreement even included an initial cash loan from his father of a few dollars, necessary to provide change for the cash register during the first days of his independent business career.

Between 1935 and 1947, Leslie Gruber paid off his debt and was able to open three more stores, and in the early months of this period of phenomenal growth, Gruber's General Stores became more and more the food stores that they are today. In 1947, Leslie opened his second store at Ida, and during 1950 the third and fourth stores followed at Petersburg and Carleton. Each store expanded in size from about 3,000 to 6,000 square feet. Self-service merchandising and super marketing techniques had not yet fully invaded the retail grocery field, and Gruber's reputation was built on service and quality, a criterion that is still firmly associated with this independent supermarket chain by veteran and new customers alike.

During this early period of growth, Les was joined in business by his brothers Clem and Warren. A third brother, Fred, worked in the Gruber stores while teaching at the Monroe High School. Further expansion was curtailed during the war years, but improvements in the stores continued as Les struggled with a labor shortage and moved in other directions to strengthen his organization. In 1946, the business was incorporated with Clem and Warren becoming partners in the firm. Three years later, Fred gave up his teaching to become a member of the corporation and to devote full time to the growing family enterprise.

As about the same time, the transition to self-service was taking place in the existing Gruber markets, and plans were being studied for building larger super markets in the future. These plans materialized with the opening of Gruber's 14,000 square foot market adjoining the other house in Monroe, Michigan, the same time the 10,000 square foot store in Monroe and another super market about the same time, the closed their original Sand Pit market, leaving them with a total of seven units, all self-service, but only three of which were in the super market classification.

Indicative of the unity that has given this independent operation much of its strength, is the fact that its board of directors which has been added to in the years since the chain incorporated, consists of employees who have bought stock in the company. They are: Ronald A. Bahamiller, manager of the So. Monroe Gruber market; Donald L. Davidson, manager of Ida market; and Edward C. Venz, produce buyer and supervisor.

Top executive and administrative responsibilities are shared by the four Gruber brothers who hold the following offices: Leslie, president; Fred J. Jr., vice president; Warren W. 36, secretary-treasurer; and Clem J. 36, member of the board of directors, together with Mr. Venz, produce merchandiser; John Gruber, grocery merchandiser; Arden Westover, meat merchandiser; Norman Biers, meat supervisor; and Henry Weiss, director of bakery operations.

Aside from building its reputation on service and quality, officials of Gruber's Food Markets are well known in their community for their civic-mindedness. For example, Gruber's Markets sponsored a radio program for a time in which announcements from churches, civic and fraternal groups were carried free of charge.

The story of the Grubers of Monroe is another excellent example of the possibilities of success for independent retail grocers.

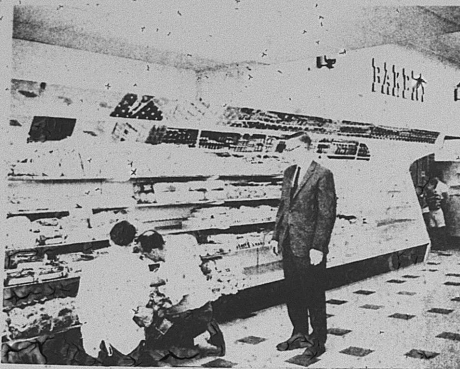

Gruber's Food Market features a protective entrance of the building for the convenience of customers during inclement weather. The entrance is 18,480 square feet. The sales area is 18,480 square feet. The modern front also incorporates the new safety sliding doors, made of shatterproof glass. Another feature of the new store is the ramping walk-in cooler at the building that completely eliminates all activity of loading trucks etc.

GRUBER'S LAMBERTVILLE MARKET BOASTS CLEAN, WELL KEPT DEPARTMENTS

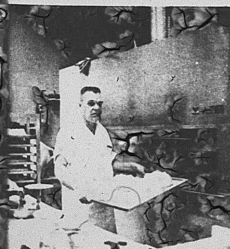

One of the new concepts in supermarkets is carried out at Gruber's new market with a sparkling complete bakery. Bread, rolls, cakes, pies, tarts, are made fresh daily. Here, employees are shown with freshly baked goods ready for wrapping and display.

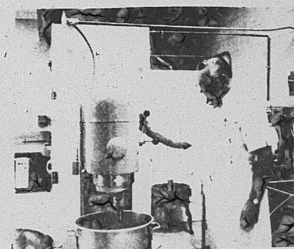

The produce department of the new Gruber Food Market is brilliantly displayed with the use of the painted and pickled hardwood artwork. John Cangelosi is manager of the department. One of the new features of the display cases is the circular motion of the cold air. It does not reach out or hit the aisles.

Modern Facilities Advance Bakery

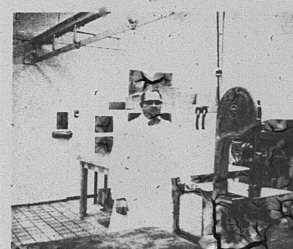

Manager of the bakery department is shown at work in one of the new bakeries. The new bakery is modern and fully equipped with all the latest facilities. The bakery has a 720 cubic foot freezer, can bake 400 hamburger buns, 80 loaves of bread at one time. A minimum exhaust fan keeps the air clear of flour dust at all times.

Henry Weiss Named Head of Bakery

Henry Weiss, head of the bakery at Gruber's new food market, is shown at work in one of the new bakeries. He learned his trade in Germany and is considered to be one of the finest bakers in this part of the country. For having one of his hobbies and interests, a fox hunt captain in Bedford Township.

Norm Bert Is Meat Supervisor

Norm Bert, meat supervisor for the food chain, is shown at work in the meat department. The meat cutting room shown is air-conditioned and kept at 35 degrees. From the time the meat arrives, cut and wrapped it is kept under refrigeration constantly.

Working Conditions Grubers Ideal

32 Full and Part Time
Workers Enjoy Benefits

32 full time and part time workers in the County area enjoy excellent working conditions under union contracts. They are covered by the Local Union 876, AFL-CIO. Under their contract they enjoy full health insurance coverage, pension plan, six paid holidays, with the seven being their birthday. They have a dental plan and all uniforms are furnished by the company. Their wages and fringe benefits compare very favorably with those of other workers in the meat industries in North America.

Industrial Development Getting

Industrial development expert Charles Wise, general manager of the Luffan Area Chamber of Commerce, stressed the importance of ready availability of land in his talk last Friday before members of the Bedford Township Industrial Development Commission, community officials and interested citizens. Mr. Wise detailed the methods employed by his organization to help bring industry and commercial development to the area. He emphasized the importance of having a large tract of land available for industrial development. Mr. Wise also mentioned the importance of having a good transportation network and a good labor force. He concluded his talk by stating that the Bedford Township Industrial Development Commission is working hard to attract industry to the area and that he is confident that they will be successful in the future.
